INTRODUCTION

The Clayton J. Brukner Collection was accessioned by Wright State University in April 1980. The Collection consists of business records of the Waco Aircraft Company which was owned by Brukner, and various printed materials relating to aviation, books, journals, yearbooks, etc.

Although the material in the collection covers the dates 1929 to 1972, the bulk of the material relates to the years 1930-1945. From the business records, the extent of Waco's involvement in World War II may be examined. The material relating to the Manufacturers Aircraft Association would be particularly interesting to students of aviation history.

Researchers interested in particular Waco aircraft should be aware that the amount of technical information regarding Waco aircraft in this collection is very small. Basically, the strengths of this collection lie in the Manufacturers Aircraft Association section previously mentioned and in the material concerning the aircraft industry's involvement in World War II. Of course, the business records would be valuable to someone researching the management history of the Waco Aircraft Company.

Linear feet of shelf space occupied - 19 (39 Hollinger boxes).

There are no restrictions on the use of this collection.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH

Clayton John Brukner was born December 18, 1898 in Ravenna, Nebraska, the youngest of seven children of John and Rachel Brukner. After a brief move to Burkeville, Virginia, the Bruknors settled in Battle Creek, Michigan where Clayton entered school, graduating from Battle Creek Central High School in 1915.

Always interested in electronics and machines, Clayton found work as an electrical maintenance man at the Postum Company in Battle Creek. He later went to work for the Curtiss Aeroplane and Motor Company in Buffalo, New York and then to Aeromarine and Standard Aircraft Company.

With assistance from George E. "Buck" Weaver, Brukner and his closest friend, James Elwood Junkin, formed an aircraft company in 1920 and agreed to call it the Weaver Aircraft Company or Waco for short. The company was situated at Weaver's airfield in Lorain, Ohio.

In 1923 Brukner and Junkin moved to Troy, Ohio where they formed the Advance Aircraft Company, keeping the name Waco to describe the company's aircraft. During the twenties and thirties, Brukner's company turned out numerous civil aircraft models achieving dominance in the light aircraft field.

In June 1929, Brukner changed the name of his company from the Advance Aircraft Company to the Waco Aircraft Company. The company continued to specialize in light civil aircraft, both open cockpit and cabin designs.

During World War II, Waco designed and built primary trainers and troop and cargo carrying gliders for the Army Air Forces. During the war, Waco built 1,607 CG-3, CG-4, CG-13, and CG-15 gliders and other companies built, on contract, 13,402 additional gliders.

After the war, Brukner and his company concentrated on building airplane parts and small machinery, declining to compete in the civil aircraft market. In 1963, Brukner sold his company to Allied Aero Industries, Inc. of Syracuse, NY. The Troy plant was closed soon after.

Interested in increasing cooperation among the aircraft companies in the country, Brukner was active in the Manufacturers Aircraft Association, an organization which served to disseminate information throughout the aircraft industry.

Always an avid lover of nature, Brukner bought land for a wildlife refuge seven miles from Troy in 1934. This became known as the Brukner Nature Center which was incorporated on June 27, 1967 by the State of Ohio for educational purposes. An active civic leader in Troy, Brukner served on the board of the Stouder Memorial Hospital from 1945-1950. One wing of the hospital, built largely from Brukner's financial assistance, was named for him in 1972.

Clayton J. Brukner died on December 26, 1977. He was buried at Lyons Lake Cemetery in Marshall, Michigan.

SCOPE AND CONTENT

Series I of the Clayton J. Brukner Collection contains corporate minutes of the Waco Board of Directors from April 30, 1940 through February 4, 1963. Also included are minutes from stockholder's meetings during the same period.

Series II consists of various financial records of the Waco Company. The series includes monthly balance sheets, profit and loss statements, audit reports and sales reports covering the years 1930-1962. The researcher should be aware, however, that there are several gaps in the series.

Series III contains corporate administrative files from 1940-1959. This series includes various files dealing with Waco's involvement with several government and industry-based organizations and programs during the years of World War II. Also included in the series are files of Waco shareholders from 1945-1959.

Series IV contains correspondence arranged alphabetically, covering the years 1929 to 1972, although the bulk of the correspondence centers around the years 1930 to 1945. The majority of the correspondence is business oriented including inter-office memorandums, but there are also files concerning government agencies and professional institutions.

Series V covers material concerning Waco products built from 1934-1945. This series includes instruction manuals and parts lists for several models of Waco cabin aircraft built from 1934-1939. The numerical drawing lists for the Waco military gliders refer to blueprints that are not part of the Brukner collection. Production information for the CG-4A, CG-15A and C-62 aircraft are included and a few photographs of Waco aircraft are located at the end of the file.

Series VI consists of material pertaining to the Manufacturers Aircraft Association, an organization that Brukner was very active in. Most of the series contains issues of three M.A.A. publications, the M.A.A. Bulletins, the M.A.A Patent Arbitrations and the M.A.A Patent Digests. The M.A.A Bulletins deal with legal matters such as patent infringements that concerned the aeronautical companies in the United States. The Bulletins also dealt with changes in government regulations which may have had an immediate impact on the aircraft manufacturers. The M.A.A. Arbitrations deal solely with patent claims and royalty awards. The file also includes patent licenses awarded to Waco. The M.A.A. Patent Digests are abridgements of United States airplane patents that had been newly awarded. These three publications cover the years from roughly 1930 to 1962, and there are British supplements to the Patent Digest for the years 1936 through 1961.

The researcher should be aware that there are several gaps in these files, the largest being in the Patent Digest from 1950 to 1959 inclusive. The indexes for those years are present however, and are located chronologically in the Patent Digest series.

This series also contains correspondence regarding the M.A.A. and several patent cases involving Waco.

The last series, number VII, consists of various published newsletters and magazines of aeronautical organizations including Waco. The publications cover the years 1943 to 1965 but the researcher should be advised that these files are very sparse with only a few examples of these publications available in the collection. A substantial amount of printed materials relating to aeronautics has been separated from the collection and catalogued into the Special Collections Library.

The list that follows describes the printed materials separated from the collection and cataloged into the Special Collections Library.
